

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for providing technical support documents on a peripheral device connected to a web server storing the requested technical support documents via the Internet, which includes the steps of selecting an event on the device, requesting a default uniform resource locator with the selected event, and returning the technical support document relating to the selected event of the requested uniform resource locator to the device.

F:\DATA\WP60\3427\65091\10008151.DOC